

KKEF Young Environmentalist Internship Award 2006 Recipient

Dr. Uthaya Kumari A/P Raman

Internship to: Village Green Managed Sustainable Services, Australia

Title of Paper: A Holistic Approach towards a Sustainable Business Management

Particularly among Small and Medium Sized Business

Dr. Uthaya K Raman has a basic degree in Botany from Universiti Malaya (UM). She completed her PhD in Plant Physiology with Dr. David Hanke from University of Cambridge in 2000. She is currently a lecturer at Sunway International College where she teaches Biology for Australian Matriculation Programme students and History and Philosophy of Science at the degree level. She is also actively involved in the curriculum development for Natural Sciences Degree Programmes and is the editor for Sunway Academic Journal. Her submission essay portrays her strong passion for educating and increasing the level of environmental knowledge in our community. This and her belief that education can make a difference by developing one's personal ethic for the good of the Earth impressed our interview panel.
